Dear Friends,

The adoption of the Sustainable Development Goals by the United Nations in 2015 was a pivotal moment for Rise Against Hunger. We cheered as nations around the world committed to end hunger by the year 2030. After all, ending hunger in our lifetime has been our mission since our inception 19 years ago.

However, the message from the United Nations was also clear: this goal could not be achieved unless we stepped up our efforts as a world community. For Rise Against Hunger, that meant asking how we could increase our contribution. Answering that question led us to several “big moves” in 2016:

- Implemented Pathways to End Hunger, a new program framework which broadens our impact to end hunger.
- Launched our new name, Rise Against Hunger, which supports our expanded approach to end hunger.
- Began the journey of optimizing internal operations to ensure that we can continue to grow and feed the world.

These three key initiatives will allow us to operate more effectively as a global organization and leverage resources with our in-country offices in India, Italy, the Philippines, Malaysia and South Africa.

We achieved some major milestones in 2016. For the first time, we benefited more than 1 million people around the globe in just one year. We engaged a record number of volunteers — 376,000 — to package 64 million meals worldwide. You’ll read about many more achievements in this annual report.

We believe ending hunger by 2030 is possible. We know that you, our partners, donors and volunteers, also believe it through your continued support, commitment and passion. Our momentum is strong. We are building our global brand through the Power of We. Now is our time to rise up and boldly move forward together to end hunger.

Sincerely,

Rod Brooks, President & CEO
Kate Day, Chair, Board of Directors
A Closer Look at Our New Name

In 2016, we prepared to adopt our new brand and name, Rise Against Hunger. As we expand globally, we are creating new pathways to end hunger. We are redefining how we fight hunger, implementing additional sustainable strategies alongside our meal packaging and distribution program.

Our new name and logo speak to our vision for the future, support our mission to create a global hunger movement and reflect our continued growth and worldwide reach with a global brand identity. While the need for this change arose because of our inability to register the trademark for Stop Hunger Now, we embraced this challenge as an opportunity to express our approach in a new, dynamic way. Stop Hunger Now transitioned to Rise Against Hunger in early 2017.

We are so appreciative of the overwhelmingly positive response we’ve received from our volunteers and donors.

Harvested: Rice is the most commonly consumed grain with regard to human nutrition and caloric intake. Along with soy or lentil proteins, vegetables and vitamins, rice is the fourth and final ingredient in our meals.

Transported: The rice we use is sourced locally whenever possible, and transported to one of our locations around the world. From there, staff store and inventory the rice along with the other meal ingredients.

Packaged & Boxed: Volunteers across the globe come together to package meals for those in need. Rice and other dry ingredients are combined into a meal bag that, with water, becomes a highly nutritious vegetarian meal. Meals are packed into boxes that are stored in warehouses until they are ready to ship internationally.

Shipped: Boxes of meals bags are packed inside a shipping container, leave a warehouse and make their way to one of the countries where our Impact Partners operate their programs.

Distributed & Stored: Our Impact Partners transport the meals safely from the ports to their program sites. The meals can travel thousands of miles before they reach their final destination for distribution at schools, orphanages, clinics or vocational centers.

Cooked & Served: Our meals include instructions on hygiene and safe cooking practices. Most locations customize the meals into local dishes and add either vegetables or protein. Meals are served in schools, vocational training programs, medical clinics, maternal health facilities, child and youth development centers and elder care facilities.

Nourished: Meals attract people to education and wellness programs and prevent dropouts – especially among girls – while simultaneously alleviating short-term hunger and enabling communities to rise and break the cycle of poverty.

EMERGENCY RELIEF
Critical to Rise Against Hunger’s mission is building a growing, global movement to end hunger. Regardless of your location on the map, age, schedule or resources, we believe that everyone can make a positive difference in the fight against hunger. Rise Against Hunger engages volunteers across the U.S. and around the world to package highly nutritious meals for distribution to people in need. In 2016, more than 376,000 people took part in Rise Against Hunger meal packaging events worldwide.

CREATING HUNGER CHAMPIONS: ADVOCACY AT RISE AGAINST HUNGER
Advocacy is interwoven into every part of the movement at Rise Against Hunger and is a vital activity in which our volunteers can actively engage. Rise Against Hunger defines advocacy as engaging and empowering people toward changing laws, policies, systems and attitudes to end hunger by 2030. In 2016, we encouraged hunger champions to ask elected officials to prioritize the fight against world hunger and poverty. As one of 179 members of the Vote to End Hunger coalition, we helped deliver a petition with 630,000 signatures that triggered both U.S. presidential candidates to provide their written agendas to end hunger.

RISE AGAINST HUNGER OPENS NEW YORK LOCATION
In an effort to grow the movement to end hunger and engage more volunteers, Rise Against Hunger celebrated the opening of a new location with a ribbon-cutting and grand opening event on April 7, 2016, in our new New York warehouse. This event marked the accomplishments of supporters, funders and meal packaging volunteers who have been packaging meals for Rise Against Hunger and helped support the opening of the new location.

“Everyone is well-poised to make a difference.”
- KATE DAY, RISE AGAINST HUNGER BOARD CHAIR
Nourishing Lives Worldwide

As communities work toward a future in which they can thrive, vulnerable families and individuals around the globe still have basic, immediate needs. That’s why Rise Against Hunger supports safety net programs that provide nourishment and additional skills training or services that support the difficult journey out of poverty. Rise Against Hunger’s nutrient-rich meals, which include micronutrient sachets provided by The Kraft Heinz Company Foundation, address these deficiencies to provide the nutrition needed for bodies and minds to fully grow and develop.

Rise Against Hunger meals, enriched by micronutrients, are provided in schools to encourage increased enrollment and attendance. For adults in community empowerment programs, the provision of meals offsets productive time lost while attending training sessions. Meals distributed in hospitals and clinics may support patients’ nutritional needs and complement their treatments.

Rise Against Hunger bolsters agricultural production and incomes through programs promoting improved agricultural methods, business skills and market access. With training and access to quality seeds and fertilizers, farmers can increase production and harvest a variety of nutritious crops. By supporting the establishment of fish and livestock production, we provide pathways to diversify diets and improve nutritional outcomes. For those who do not grow their own food, income is a key determinant in being food secure. Through income generating activities, we help individuals increase their earning potential and their consistent access to food.

FARM TO FORK INITIATIVE

In 2016, Rise Against Hunger launched its “Farm to Fork” initiative in the Philippines. Rise Against Hunger purchases vegetables for its volunteer meal packaging program from small scale indigenous farmers through partnership with the Negrense Volunteers for Change. The farmers grow their own food, and excess production is sold by their cooperatives at fair market prices to NVC, which dehydrates the vegetables for Rise Against Hunger. Shavings from the dehydration are provided back to the farmers for fertilizer. The vegetables purchased for Rise Against Hunger meals support supplemental feeding programs in the farmers’ communities, completing the cycle.
THERAPEUTIC FEEDING PROGRAM IN SOUTH SUDAN

South Sudan has been plagued with ongoing violence since December 2013. The civil unrest has caused over 2.4 million residents to flee their homes, causing fields to lie fallow, livestock to be looted or abandoned and the national food system as a whole to be disrupted due to economic decline. Rise Against Hunger began its work in South Sudan in 2012 by coordinating relief efforts to public health crises facing the region of Old Fangak. As the conflict intensified in 2016, we also committed to allocate the necessary funding and the technical expertise to provide ready-to-use therapeutic food for more than 500 children under the age of 5 suffering from severe acute malnutrition. Crosscurrents International in Old Fangak has helped to implement this program.

Responding to Emergencies

Rise Against Hunger is committed to responding to sudden and ongoing crises to meet immediate needs of affected populations and support the transition toward recovery. According to the UN Development Programme, by 2030, 325 million of the world’s most vulnerable will live in 49 of the most disaster-prone countries in the world.

In building the resilience of communities, Rise Against Hunger works hand-in-hand with in-country partners to ensure that our meals and other life-changing aid reach people in crisis effectively and according to need. We have responded to emergencies by delivering food assistance, water filters and hygiene kits.

HURRICANE MATTHEW

After Hurricane Matthew devastated large swaths of Haiti in October 2016, we worked quickly to distribute aid to those affected by the storm. Rise Against Hunger partner ADRA International distributed more than nine containers of Rise Against Hunger meals, totaling more than 2.5 million meals. Ongoing distribution efforts prioritized extremely vulnerable households and institutions such as schools and orphanages in affected areas.

Beyond our global headquarters in Raleigh, North Carolina, and our 20 U.S. locations, Rise Against Hunger operates five global in-country offices that are strategically aligned with our mission and vision to end hunger. In 2016, we heightened our focus on operating as a global organization and explored ways to strengthen collaboration with our offices in India, Italy, Malaysia, the Philippines and South Africa.

Global Mandela Day

Our South Africa location took the lead for this global initiative to “Follow the Sun,” encouraging people to devote 67 minutes to make a positive difference in honor of Mandela Day — one minute for every year of Mandela’s public service. Teams of volunteers packaged meals in India, Italy, Malaysia, South Africa, and the United States.

“The Mandela Day meal packaging event gives recognition to the efforts of my late husband and the first democratically elected President of South Africa, Nelson Mandela. There can be no greater joy than acknowledging that each year, our efforts with Rise Against Hunger continue to nurture and feed hungry children whilst ensuring their education.”

- NELSON MANDELA’S WIFE, CHIEF PATRON MRS. GRACA MACHEL

Rise Against Hunger's global in-country offices implement a holistic approach to ending hunger by the year 2030. The main benefits of global in-country offices are:

• Local procurement of ingredients and equipment, improving the local economy
• Improved capacity to respond to local and regional crises and natural disasters
• Regional feeding with the option to engage meal packaging volunteers in distribution
• Ability to adapt meals to local tastes and needs while partnering with smaller NGOs
• Improved capacity to monitor and evaluate the impact of meals and partners
• Engaging and educating local volunteers in the movement to end hunger
• Local staff, leadership and board development of local community programming
Mobilizing Volunteers

Q: Where did the idea of a 24-hour meal packaging event come from?
A: One of our planning members threw that idea out there after our first meal packaging event. I believe we were all shooting for the stars, but it came to fruition!

Q: Why do you personally believe hunger is an important issue to tackle?
A: I volunteer with a few local agencies that deal with hunger. When I look at the statistics, it just breaks my heart.

Q: How do you inspire and engage others in your church to get involved?
A: I try to personally ask people to get involved. We have had bake sales, soup sales and even Sticky Bun Sunday sales to raise the funds for these events. If you have ever volunteered at a meal packaging event, it sells itself with so much fun, music, people and feeling of community. The intergenerational aspect is huge in my opinion, there are not too many opportunities to have people from ages 4 to 80 work side by side.

Collaborating for Good

Rise Against Hunger has partnered with corporate supporters through dynamic, consumer-based cause marketing campaigns. These campaigns engage consumers in special events, both in restaurants and online, while supporting Rise Against Hunger’s mission to end world hunger. An extra benefit for brands that choose Rise Against Hunger as a cause partner is added value that comes from actively engaging their employees in the volunteer movement alongside public awareness campaigns.

PLATE 4 PLATE: ZAMBRERO
Australian quick service restaurant chain Zambrero supports the hunger cause through its innovative Plate 4 Plate campaign, donating a meal to Rise Against Hunger with the sale of every Mexican bowl or burrito. Zambrero engages employees and customers in the hunger movement through meal packaging events and in-country vision trips to see the impact of Rise Against Hunger meals firsthand. In 2016, Zambrero contributed 13.1 million meals, serving 131,000 people.

SELFIE FOR GOOD: KRAFT HEINZ KETCHUP
Aligned with the Kraft Heinz company mission, “Best Food Company Growing a Better World,” impressions for the Selfie for Good campaign were estimated at 1 billion with 20 million co-branded ketchup bottles in restaurants across the U.S. Diners were invited to text and share selfies to support donations to Rise Against Hunger up to $1.57 each. The campaign launched in November 2016, and is planned for two consecutive years. In the first year of the campaign, Kraft Heinz contributed $200,000, serving 7,000 people in need.
Distributing Life-Changing Aid

Rise Against Hunger’s impact worldwide reaches beyond meals and nutrition. In 2016, we leveraged partnerships to secure more than $17 million in product donations for distribution around the globe, including:

- First aid supplies
- Antibiotics and pain relievers
- Clothing and shoes
- Blood pressure and diabetes medications
- Soap

In 2016, we shipped medical aid to six countries:
Sierra Leone, Liberia, Dominican Republic, Honduras, Angola and Belize

2,500 children in seven schools across Haiti received a fortified peanut butter snack daily, thanks to Astellas Pharma, U.S., and Meds and Food for Kids

30,000 women, senior citizens and children in 10 villages in India received medical care via mobile clinics funded and supported by Kraft Heinz India

67,500+ bars of soap provided by Clean the World

2,600 hygiene kits for victims of severe flooding in Lumberton, North Carolina, following Hurricane Matthew in partnership with Islamic Relief

446,094 patient treatments supported by MAP International

Other valuable in-kind aid provided by Lighting for Literacy, Under Armour, Little Dresses for Africa and Global Links.

MEDICINE DISTRIBUTED TO THE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC THROUGH STRONG PARTNERSHIPS

Rise Against Hunger’s success in securing and distributing much-needed medicinal aid is possible thanks to our strong collaboration with key partners like MAP (Medical Assistance Programs) International. Rise Against Hunger has partnered with MAP International, a non-profit organization that provides life-changing medicine to people in need, for more than 15 years. Together, we’ve distributed food and medicine to clinics around the globe.

PROVIDING NUTRITIOUS MEALS

Rise Against Hunger meals are nutritiously sound and provide a comprehensive array of micronutrients. According to the 2016 Global Nutrition Report, one in three people worldwide are adversely affected by malnutrition. Hunger is the world’s most pressing, solvable problem.

Since 2013, the Kraft Heinz Company Foundation has contributed funding and technical expertise to help Rise Against Hunger improve the composition of the micronutrient sachets in our meals to provide greater nutritional value to the existing rice, soy protein and dried vegetables.

Every meal is fortified with 23 essential vitamins and nutrients. In 2016, the Foundation provided more than 10.6 million sachets that added micronutrients to 64.1 million Rise Against Hunger meals. Rise Against Hunger is proud to be part of the Kraft Heinz Micronutrient Campaign, the signature corporate social responsibility program of the Kraft Heinz Company and its Foundation.
Rise Against Hunger continually strives to be a good steward of the contributions we receive. In 2016, we invested 86.7% of expenses directly into our programs by carefully managing administrative and fundraising costs.

RATED 4 STARS BY CHARITY NAVIGATOR IN 2016
After Miranda Pace’s son was born two years ago, she became profoundly aware of the issue of world hunger. Miranda said she began to “think about mothers with fewer resources."

“I did some research, and what I found broke my heart,” Miranda said. “Not only was I part of a small population of the world who could afford luxuries such as clean, running water, air conditioning and disposable diapers, I was faced with the unimaginable reality that millions of children are dying from hunger.”

Miranda decided that she would do everything possible to solve the problem of hunger.

“We have the ability to rise against hunger,” Miranda said. “I hope that you will join me, for this is truly #HowWeRise.”
I started giving to Rise Against Hunger because of the strategic vision I have continued to see over the years. The organization’s effect is greatly enhanced by the local partnerships that are having a long-term impact on people’s welfare. I became involved because of a speech by Rise Against Hunger Founder Ray Buchanan, but the strategy has kept me involved. I want to share the blessings we have, but I don’t want to see it wasted.”
